UNITAR is the principal training arm of the UN system headquartered in Geneva with Offices in New York, Hiroshima and Port Harcourt. The office has been developing trainings for 2nd Committee delegates related to the operation activities of development in 2012, 2016, 2020 and is in the process of 2024 preparation. UNITAR operates with a vision of providing knowledge “on the UN, by the UN and for the UN”. It develops and delivers an average of 30 courses annually to thousands of members of the international community – diplomats, UN staff, the members of civil society (including NGOs) and the private sector. Its courses focus on: 1) developing technical knowledge of the UN system and its functioning; 2) building skills that are specific to multilateral diplomacy; and 3) exchanging information and research in the form of Conferences (or series of Conferences) on areas of topical and immediate interest to negotiators at the UN. QCPR is a successful collaboration between the Permanent Mission of Switzerland to the UN, United Nations Institute for Training and Research (UNITAR), and the United Nations Department of Economic and Social Affairs (UN DESA).

United Nations Department of Economic and Social Affairs (UN DESA)

UN DESA is a vital interface between global policies and national action in the economic, social and environmental spheres. Guided by the universal and transformative 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and other global agreements, UN DESA responds to the needs and priorities of the global community, whether by organizing major UN conferences, supporting intergovernmental bodies, taking the pulse of the latest socioeconomic trends, publishing cutting-edge analyses or helping countries develop capacity. DESA provides the trusted data that governments use to make decisions about the future, brings the global community together to find common solutions to the world’s most pressing problems and helps countries translate their global commitments into national action in the economic, social and environmental spheres.
