Prof. Jerry John Kponyo

Head of Responsible AI Lab, Kwame Nkrumah University of Science and Technology,Ghana

Prof. Jerry John Kponyo is the Dean of the Quality Assurance and Planning Office of the Kwame Nkrumah University of Science and Technology (KNUST) Ghana; under the Vice-Chancellor's Office. Previously, he held the position of Dean of the Faculty of Electrical and Computer Engineering at KNUST. Before assuming the role of Dean, he served as the Head of the Electrical Engineering Department.

He is the Project Lead of the KNUST Engineering Education Project (KEEP), a World Bank Africa Center of Excellence Impact project with focus on Digital Development and Energy, he is also the Co-Founder of the Responsible AI Network (RAIN) Africa, a collaborative effort between KNUST and TUM Germany.

Prof. Kponyo is the PI and Scientific Director of the Responsible Artificial Intelligence Lab sponsored by IDRC, FCDO, French Embassy in Ghana and GIZ. He is also the project lead for the AI4SD project supported by the French Embassy through AFD. He is also the PI for the Partner-Afrika project sponsored by BMZ.

He has done extensive research in IoT, intelligent systems and AI and has over 80 published articles in refereed Journals and Conference proceedings and he is a member of the Ghana Institution of Engineers.