

ECOSOC Decision 2006/212

Promoting an integrated approach to rural development in developing countries for poverty eradication and sustainable development

At its 3rd plenary meeting, on 10 February 2006, the Economic and Social Council decided to consider, at its regular organizational session in February 2007, the proposal to include a discussion on promoting an integrated approach to rural development in developing countries for poverty eradication and sustainable development at a future substantive session of the Council.